What is Big Stompy Robots?

Big Stompy Robots is a tabletop game where players control giant robots and battle each other. The game is played on a hexagonal map, and players use cards to move their robots, attack their opponents, and defend themselves.

The goal of the game is to be the last player standing. Players can win by destroying all of their opponents' robots, or by capturing the enemy HQ.

How to Play Big Stompy Robots

Big Stompy Robots is a simple game to learn, but it is full of strategy and excitement. The game is played in turns, and each player can perform two actions on their turn.

The two actions that players can perform are:

- Move: Players can move their robot one space in any direction.
- Attack: Players can attack an enemy robot that is adjacent to their own. To attack, the player rolls a die. If the die roll is higher than the enemy robot's defense, the enemy robot takes damage.

Robots in Big Stompy Robots have two stats: attack and defense. Attack determines how much damage a robot does when it attacks, and defense determines how much damage a robot can withstand before it is destroyed.

In addition to the basic actions, players can also use cards to perform special abilities. Cards can be used to move robots, attack enemies, or defend against attacks.

Winning Big Stompy Robots

The goal of Big Stompy Robots is to be the last player standing. Players can win by destroying all of their opponents' robots, or by capturing the enemy HQ.

To capture the enemy HQ, a player must move their robot onto the HQ space and roll a die. If the die roll is higher than the HQ's defense, the player captures the HQ and wins the game.
