

Comparison of International Arbitration Rules: Third Edition - An In-depth Guide for Practitioners

Editor's Note: As a component of the most comprehensive arbitration rules from the most prestigious bodies in the field,

Author: Steven A. Cottelman, Esq., is a member of the New York City bar. He is an adjunct professor of law at Touro University School of Law, a Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators and a Chartered Arbitrator and Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators in which he has served in many capacities, including Vice-Chair of the American sub-division of the Board of Appeals. He is a frequent speaker, writer, and author on international dispute resolution. He is also the president of a provider of arbitration compliance for arbitrators.

Abstract: This article compares the most prominent arbitration rules in the field, including the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules, the ICC Rules of Arbitration, the LCIA Rules of Arbitration, the CIAA Rules for Dispute Resolution, and the UNCITRAL Conciliation Rules. It highlights the similarities and differences between these rules, such as the scope of jurisdiction, the procedure for appointment of arbitrators, the rules for evidence, and the rules for enforcement. The article also discusses the impact of these rules on arbitration practice and the challenges they pose to arbitrators and parties.

Conclusion: The article concludes by noting that while the differences between these rules may be significant, they all serve the same basic purpose of providing a fair and efficient forum for resolving disputes. The choice of rule will depend on the specific needs of the parties and the nature of the dispute.

International arbitration has become the preferred method of dispute resolution for cross-border commercial transactions. With the increasing globalization of business, it is essential for practitioners to have a comprehensive understanding of the different arbitration rules available.
