Core Principles of Healing Relationships

The ICC's approach to relationships is deeply rooted in biblical principles and the transformative power of love. Members believe that authentic relationships are essential for spiritual well-being and that they serve as a catalyst for personal and collective growth.

At the heart of their relational philosophy lies the following core principles:

- Unconditional Love: Every member is valued and loved unconditionally, regardless of their past or present circumstances. This creates a safe and supportive environment where individuals can grow and heal.
- Transparency and Accountability: Openness, honesty, and accountability are encouraged, fostering a culture of trust and vulnerability. Members are supported in sharing their struggles and seeking constructive feedback.
- Forgiveness and Reconciliation: The ICC believes in the transformative power of forgiveness and reconciliation. Members are guided to let go of grudges and broken relationships, promoting a journey of healing and restoration.
- Mutual Edification: Relationships within the ICC are built on a foundation of mutual encouragement and support. Members actively seek to uplift, edify, and challenge each other to grow in their faith and personal lives.

Inspiring Stories of Transformation

The transformative power of healing relationships within the ICC is evident in the countless lives that have been touched by this movement. Here are a few inspiring stories:
